

This Playbook is designed to give you guidance on how to plan and execute a winning sponsorship effort and a detailed vision of how you and your team will operate in the new online environment.

The Online Summit is intended to provide you with direct connections to hundreds of tech-hungry builders and their trade allies. Attendees are seeking to update their home tech line-ups and to beef-up digital marketing and sales assets as they answer the surge in new home demand and respond to new market dynamics.

What's in it for Your Company?

- Virtual Booth: A space to provide attendees with product introductions, digital collateral, and interest them to attend your presentations. Attendees can also request meetings and more information from your team.
- Presentations: A 30-min. and/or 15-minute Presentation. These presentations are part of an ambitious program of online content including general sessions, organized into three tracks (Single Family, Multi-Family & Solutions).
- Your booth and presentations are opportunities to inform, educate, impress and, most important, generate inquiries for next steps, leads and on-the-spot meetings!

What's in it for Attendees?

- Highly polished, professionally produced presentations and compelling content that is tuned to the needs of the tech-forward builders and multifamily companies we serve.
- Implementation tools like our Guides, Taxonomies and Research to ensure attendees devise action plans for real results incorporating sponsor products and services.
- You've heard it before – CONTENT IS KING – and it's true now more than ever! It won't be just another Zoom meeting or series of boring webcasts!

Steps to Success!

Step 1 – Identify a Marketing Lead

Whereas top sales and builder channel leaders tend to be on point for our in-person Summits, proficiency in brand promotion and digital marketing are the key skill sets for our Online Summit. Over the next week or so, please identify a Marketing Lead who will stay involved from preparation to execution on show days and the post-event follow-up/on-demand phase.

Step 2 - Learning the Platform

We'll be providing tutorials for your Marketing Lead on the functionality of the Summit platform and how to perform various tasks on it such as:

- Building your virtual booth
- Preloading pre-recorded presentation content and collateral
- Delivering live presentations and mixing in slides, other visuals and videos
- Inserting surveys and asking questions during presentations
- Engaging attendees who visit your booth
- Tracking and responding to inquiries and visits
- Attending general sessions

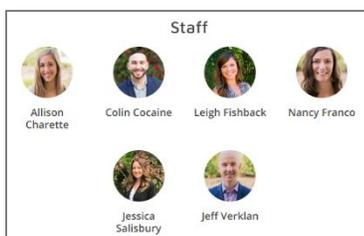

Getting a good sense of the online environment and activities is a key to your success.

Step 3 – Strategic Planning & Organizing Your Team

The Online Summit is more of a top-of-the-funnel brand promotion/lead gen opportunity than our deep-funnel, sales-traction-delivering in-person Summits. It's critical that you think through your positioning and the brand promise you want to project as a foundation of your play in the Summit.

From there your decisions are more tactical:

- Which products, services and proven processes do we want to promote?
- Which do we want to feature/highlight?
- What existing digital marketing assets can we use for brand projection and promotions and what do we need to create?
- Who are the staff/cast members who should contribute to the development and delivery of our messages?
- What next steps are we trying to close, and how we will ensure swift and sure action on them?

Knowing how calendars fill quickly, this is also the time to schedule appropriate staff for participation in strategic planning, presentation development and delivery and manning of your virtual booth.

Step 4 - Preparing Presentations

As mentioned previously, the stakes for your presentations are much higher online vs. in-person. You need to present powerful content in a compelling way. Here are some of the questions you'll need to answer:

How will we present?

Form Factor	Description	Pros	Cons
Live*	Live presentations are streamed via Zoom during presentation timeslot. Screen-sharing and multimedia effects available (as offered by Zoom). Allows for presenter to conduct live Q&A session via the chat feature or on screen.	Suspense of live (even mediated) keeps audience engaged. Potential for strong interaction. Ability for last-minute and on- the-fly modifications.	Highest chance for technical mishaps. Will require high level camera, microphone, lighting, etc. for quality assurance.
Pre-Recorded	Fully pre-recorded presentation to play during presentation timeslot. Should be created to seem live to maintain audience attention/viewing. Can only interact via chat and poll features.	Surest quality. Least chance for technical mishaps. Allows for follow-up live via chat feature.	Potential to seem canned. Higher risk for losing audience attention/interaction if not produced with enthusiasm and professionalism.

*If you would like to schedule a practice session before the event, please contact our team to set-up!

What will we present?

- 30-minute Presentations are essentially deep-dives on company capabilities, products and proven processes, but should utilize storytelling and engagement techniques to grab and hold attention. 15-minute Presentations should be an overview level information intended to entice a deep-dive as a Next Step.
- Below are starter concepts and outlines you can use to do your own creative brainstorming. Our team can make time to join you in brainstorming or provide feedback on your presentation concepts and outlines, upon request.

How do we produce presentations that POP?

Context. First understand the context in which your presentations will be viewed – digitally.

On the technical side of the equation that means 1080p video resolution, presentation audio captured via lavalier microphone, lighting, backdrops and professional mixed video streams. Visual enhancements include use of opening and closing graphic bumps, graphic footers identifying presenters, pull quotes, charts and graphs, still photos and live motion video.

Engagement. Next is to understand that your audience is viewing LIVE – this means be engaging!

Ask questions that are personal/enticing to answer. For example, you may ask what city and state they are viewing from or perhaps what the weather is like where they are. Any New Year's Resolutions or goals for the year to kickstart their attention. Be personable!

Step 5 - Booth Strategy

Your virtual booth is basically a pre-formatted landing page featuring your logo, company description, your Boardroom and Flyover Presentations (once they've aired live) and other digital collateral that aligns with your brand promise and promotion objectives—e.g., product videos, case studies, white papers and brochures. The poll feature at your booth can be used to create a customized Next Step Survey.

To ease your burden in this area, TechHome Builder will pre-populate your booth with copy, images and videos submitted for your most recent participation in our in-person Summits and Brilliance Awards, so you have a starting point to edit.

Step 6 - Promoting Attendance to Prospects & Customers

In the Online Summit, you are competing for attendance at your presentations and booth just like you would for an in-person trade show, so you'll want to prepare and execute digital promotion efforts. Using assets and registration links provided by TechHome Builder, you can create and broadly distribute email marketing and social media promotions to customers and prospects to your databases and platforms.

At the same time, we'll also be sending you information on how to enter in free TechHome Builder programs to promote your new and featured products and any giveaways or drawings you might be conducting as an incentive for attendance at your presentations and booth (tip: make submitting a Next Steps Survey a requirement).

Step 7 – Team Prep & Finishing Touches

Full session content previews will be posted the week of September 14, so that is the time for your team to plan your session attendance and more deeply familiarize yourselves with live operations on the platform. Be on the lookout for invitations from us to view live and on-demand webinars that will walk you through the key functionality you'll need to navigate and interact.

Step 8 – Making It Count

Fumbles, interceptions, unforced errors... pick your sport... these are the main ways games are won and lost. They are also the ways sales opportunities are lost or delayed. We will be “on you” with incessant, pleasant reminders to solidify the next steps you closed during the event and get to the deep-dives or shortlist buying team evaluations you need to pass to realize opportunities.

No matter all our work together, it means nothing if it does not produce results. And when it does, we want to know about it, so we can crow about it in our online media as social proof for you and for us!
